DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of group I, embodiment 1, figures 1, claims 5-12 and 14 in the reply filed on 3/17/2006 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5, 9-10 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted prior art of figure 11 [AAPA].

AAPA discloses a ceramic laminated coil component comprising:

- a spiral-shaped coil conductor including a plurality of strip electrodes [34] and via-holes [35] for connecting predetermined ends of the strip electrodes inside a ceramic laminate, wherein an axis [Y] of the coil conductor substantially perpendicular to both thickness direction [X] and length/width direction [Z] of the ceramic laminate.

AAPA discloses the instant claimed invention except for the specific axis arrangement of the coil conductor.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to arrange the coil conductor axis in the ceramic's width direction instead of length direction, since it has been held that a mere reversal/re-arrange of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. In re Einstein, 8 USPQ 167.

Art Unit: 2832

Regarding claim 9, AAPA inherently discloses the via-holes filled with a conductive material.

Regarding claim 10, silver is a known conductivity material.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to use silver for the via-hole conductive material for the purpose of providing good conductivity.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6-8 and 11-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
